BAYAR NEEDS FAST RELIEF!

...disastrous rumors about all aspirins being alike is causing company GREAT CONCERN

Men who know medicine recommend aspirin. The trouble is, they never recommend Bayar by name — despite the billions of free samples we send them . . . because aspirin is aspirin, darn it!

YOU CAN'T imagine how sick the Bayar people are about this vicious rumor. How can anyone be stupid enough to think all aspirins are alike? Just look at all the extras Bayar gives! Can other aspirins match these? Do they have cute little tin boxes? No! Can their names be spelled horizontally and vertically, meeting in the middle on each pill? No! Do they have lovely ads showing the human body with clever glass guts? No! All they give is plain, gov't-approved aspirin, the same as we give! Now think it over: isn't it worth paying four or five times more for all our wonderful extras? - No??

IS OUR FACE RED!?

Recently, to chide Playboy for bragging about receiving a letter with only their "Rabbit" trade mark for an address, we published a photo of a letter we received with only "Alfie's face" for an address. Well, we goofed! The envelope we received (with postmark and cancelled stamp) had been returned to the sender without mark or comment by the Post Office, and he forwarded it to us in another envelope. Due to a processing error (our mail is opened by machine!), the enclosed envelope was mistaken for an outside envelope. Sorry, Playboy. Alfie's face is really red - but obviously not by enough Post Office employees! - Ed.

SUNDAY COMIC SECTION

I mourn the passing of a great literary publication. As a MAD reader, consistently since the first edition, I feel a great epoch in our modern civilization has passed. Because MAD will never be able to issue anything that will top the "Fourth Annual Edition" and its great "Sunday Comic Section We'd Like To See"! Therefore, I presume that you will now sell your printing presses, and go into subliminal "Halavah" advertising.

HE STEALS TRASH

MAD has finally wormed its way into bureaucratic Washington. The New York Times of July 3rd reported: "Senator Jacob K. Javits, New York Republican, received a letter from Michael Bender of New Paltz calling for a radical change in national space policy. With only slight changes in design, Mr. Bender wrote, 'Our present ICBM missiles can be converted and used to put Earth's future trash into outer space, the one place there is enough dumping room. In time, Earth will take on the appearance of Saturn, with a gigantic ring of garbage around it. Speed in adopting the plan is most essential." The absurd part, though, is that Sen. Javits liked the idea which was swiped word-for-word from MAD. Or at least he said he does. The Times continued: "Senator Javits replied that the plan was 'very interesting' and he would promptly pass it on to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration." You guys should at least demand full credit, since this idea was carried in MAD #56.

SOURCE OF STRENGTH

Men become great in many ways. Among them is study and emulation of great men in history or on the contemporary scene. In Reno, we have a mayor, Bud Baker, who has been plagued with difficulties - a burglary ring in the Police Department, charges of corruption, Grand Jury indictments of City Councilmen, and constant criticism of his own overdrawn travel-expense account. Somehow, though, Bud has managed to remain calm in the midst of this deluge, and few people have understood why. The Mayor has always smiled, and maintained a sort of "What-Me Worry?" mien, and we all thought it was because of some inner serenity, some inner strength. What the source of the Mayor's strength was few people knew-until our local newspaper hit the streets yesterday. There, on the front page, was a picture of our beloved leader . . . and on the wall of the Mayor's office, for all to see and contemplate, was a picture of the source of his strength, the object of his study and emulation: Alfred E. Neuman.

THE JACK KENNEDY SHOW

I just finished reading your hilarious September issue (#65). It was one of the best! I'd give anything to see President Kennedy's face when he reads your little bit of satire, "The Jack Kennedy Show"!

Liz Dicker Oakdale, N. Y.

MAD continues to top itself—as well as its imitators. No. 65's "Jack Kennedy Show" take-off alone deserves framing. Thanks for a "Saturday Review" of humor and satire.

A MAD OPINION

In a recent "Principles of Democracy" class at Hyde Park High School, a student inquired as to the difference between the two major political parties. It was decided to form a research project in which students would write outstanding public figures of the day, asking them for their opinions. We would appreciate your brief definition of the difference between the Democratic and Republican parties.

Jewel Watson Principles of Democracy Class Hyde Park High School Hyde Park, Mass.

The difference between the Republican Party and the Democratic Party is that whichever party is in power, it does a terrible job according to the other, even though the other would probably do the same job if it were in power, in which case it would be doing a terrific job.—Ed.

AMAZING MILITARY ROCKET-BELT DEVELOPED

ARMY UNSURE OF PRACTICAL USE

Recently, the American public was startled to see movies and news photos of the successful testing of a perfected rocket belt. The pictures clearly showed a test engineer being propelled over land, water, trees and trucks at a height of fifteen feet. However, the Army confessed that it had no ideas as to the practical application of this ingenious invention. And so, with this article, MAD, in its typical public-spirited way, offers some suggestions.

carried along on those forced marches and 20-mile hikes, without having to use overcrowded, long, winding roads. This effortless mobility will also make civilians green with envy, instead of gloating over GI's usual discomfort.

WARTIME USES F

HITTING THE BEACHES

Worst part of war is getting seasick on troopships. Now GI can float over heaving deck pleasantly during rough weather, and enjoy the sight of Navy officers and men hanging over rails.

The terrible hazards of invasion by landing craft, such as overcrowding, pushing, shoving, and B.O. will be eliminated. Also minor problems like being sunk before hitting the beaches.

As anyone who has been in an invasion knows, nothing is more annoying than landing on a beach sopping wet. Now, warm rocket blasts can dry men out so later attack can be fought in comfort.

PEACETIME USES

REVEILLE

After wild night in town, sleepy GI can sleep while standing at attention by using rocket belt at half-power.

POLICING AREA

Yardbirds can blast butts and garbage clear off Army base, much like hosing down a driveway with stream of water.

RECREATION

After-hours leisure activities are so important to camp morale. Rocket-belts can improve GI-type sports and games.

OR ROCKET BELT

CAMOUFLAGE

Rocket-belted GI can be sprayed with foam to simulate cloud. But check his electrical charge. Possible collision with an oppositely-charged GI could cause thunder, lightning and rain.

PEST CONTROL

Since inconsiderate battle commanders usually pick lousiest places to fight, insect ridden areas can now be easily cleared by letting rocket belts blast all night in an upside-down position.

CHOW

Biggest inconvenience on battlefield is having to start fighting without morning cup of hot coffee. Now, with rocket blast, problem is solved. Also makes afternoon coffee-break possible.

FOR ROCKET BELT

FURLOUGHS

Going on furloughs will be made much easier and convenient by rocket belt —especially without furlough papers.

INTERSERVICE RIVALRIES

GI's will no longer worry about being outclassed by Sailors, Marines or Air Force men during those barroom brawls.

SPACE FLIGHT

Rocket belts make GI participation in this experimental field possible, like sending chicken Officers into orbit.

We spend a lot of time hanging around newsstands. We have to. It's the only way we keep dealers from burning their bundles of MAD. Anyway, while doing this, we've noticed a strange thing: Mainly, the newsstands are glutted with magazines that come out month after month, but don't look one bit different from one issue to the next. So we've decided to do the reading public a favor, and save 'em the trouble of buying all that junk. Which means they'll have more money to buy our junk. Here's . . .

What, you may ask, does a whimsical anecdote have to do with introducing an inside-front-cover endorsement for The Reader's Digress? I don't know! They all seem to start that way, so why should mine be any different?

Why am I an avid reader of the Digress?

Because the editors have an uncanny method of going through lengthy works, and reprinting those parts which they consider importantwhile ignoring those parts which they consider unimportant. This is inspired editing.

It is also crass censorship.

But being a busy, high-powered executive, I don't have the time to read things through, so I let the Digress tell me what they think I should read. This is the mark of a realistic, time-saving, knowledge-hungry citizen.

It is also the mark of a true ignoramus.

I can't tell you how delighted I am with this great publication. And how even more delighted I am to grab this page ahead of hundreds of other distinguished business executives, who are also anxious to plug their corporations here and save themselves thousands of dollars in advertising.

This cover endorsement, like everything else I do in and out of the business world, comes directly from my heart. And I couldn't feel more strongly and more sincere about it...even if I had written it myself.

MEMORABLE CHARACTER I'VE MET

YET EVER TILL NOW BY SAMUEL QUINTZ

ONE OF US in Sackinaw, Kentucky, will ever forget my eccentric old grandfather.

What a memorable character that unpredictable, lovable old fellow was!

He was such an irresistible cut-up that we gave him a special nickname. We used to call him "Grandpa." Somehow, the name just fit the peculiar old codger. My grandmother, however, had her own pet name for him, which was no less descriptive. She used to call him "Harold," which always gave us a good laugh.

I'll never forget the first time Grandpa met my wife-to-be, Alice. "Well, how do you like her, Grandpa?" I asked him, bracing myself for his usual unpredictable answer.

"She seems rather nice, Sam," he said not batting an eye. I suppose I'd have been shocked had I not been so used to his unexpected gibes.

Any time he was hungry, Grandpa would walk into the kitchen and cause the wildest commotion with acid comments like "May I eat now, please?" And whenever he was ready to put on a pair of shoes, you could rest assured the eccentric old duck would first put on something insane, like a pair of socks.

The day before Grandpa's 84th birthday, Old Doc Barnes, who was visiting us, stopped by Grandpa's room to say hello. Imagine our surprise when he told us Grandpa had been dead for two years.

"No wonder he never touched the soup last Thanksgiving," said Grandma.

We buried Grandpa. He would have wanted it that way, character that he was. Somehow, things just aren't the same these days in Grandma's house in Sackinaw.

But I forget why.

Humor in Service

AN ABSOLUTELY HILARIOUS thing happened to me during World War II when I was stationed in the Philippines. One day, just before an important battle, I complained to my First Sergeant that I was homesick. He told me what to do about it, and I thanked him profusely. I packed my things, caught a plane back to the States, and went directly to Hollywood, California.

When I was picked up by the M.P.'s a month later, and brought back to my First Sergeant, he said, "What in #$%& happened to you?"

"Well, last month I told you I was homesick," I reminded him,

"Sure," he said, "and I told you to tell it to the Chaplain! You know the Army Chaplain! It's a G.I. expression meaning 'Ain't that too bad!".

"Oh, you meant the ARMY Chaplain?" I said, starting to giggle. "I thought you meant, tell it to CHARLIE Chaplin!"

Everyone laughed so hard at this that it took the firing squad a good half hour to compose themselves and aim their rifles at me properly.

-PVT. SAUL FLERBLE (Arlington Cemetery)

IN JUNE, 1944, I was in a Basic Training Camp in Georgia, when a riotously funny incident took place. My first Sergeant, a huge fellow well over six feet tall and weighing 250 pounds, walked into our barracks, sobbing.

"I just got a 'Dear John' letter from my wife," he said, choking back the tears. "She sold my house, my car, all my belongings, took our five kids, and ran off with a black market operator to New Zealand."

Suddenly, I began to chuckle. Then my chuckle turned to laughter, and my laughter turned to uncontrolled roars of hysteria. I doubled up and rolled back and forth on the floor, nearly drowning in my tears of mirth.

He looked at me strangely, and said, "What's so funny about me getting a 'Dear John' letter from my wife?"

"That...that...that's one on her!" I said, gasping for breath, "YOUR name is Murray!"

When he walked out of the barracks a few moments later, I was still laughing. But I stopped momentarily to pick up 14 of my teeth.

-Grouns "Gummy" Volduzzi (Gary, Ind.)

in January, 1945, our Infantry Division was ordered to take an important mountain peak in Italy. We attacked at dawn, advanced half-way up the slope, and then were forced to retreat because the shelling was so fierce. Casualties on both sides were quite heavy. Three hours later, we attacked again, and once more the shelling was fierce. But we managed to battle our way to the top and gain control of the mountain. Losses on both sides were very heavy.

On re-reading the preceding anecdote, I've decided that perhaps it isn't as humorous as others I've read in The Reader's Digress, but I'm sending it to the "Humor In Service" editor anyway.

WHILE MOTORING through New Mexico last summer, my wife and I saw a teepee standing by the side of the road. Seated in front of the teepee was an authentic-looking Indian, gaudily painted and wearing a colorful tribal headdress.

We stopped the car and approached him. "Ask him in sign language if he sells souvenirs," my wife whispered.

Pointing my finger at him, I said, "You..." Then I held up a string of beads and dangled them before his eyes. Finally I took out some money and waved it in front of his face.

The Indian smiled faintly, looking first at me and then at my wife.

"Ugh!" he grunted.

As old Reader's Digress fans, we were stunned and shocked. Not only didn't this Indian speak perfect English, but we found out later that he didn't even come from Brooklyn.

I was visiting New York City for the first time, and I decided to take my first subway ride. So I boarded a train at Times Square one weekday at 5:00 P.M. Needless to say, the train was jammed with people, all pushing and shoving and using dreadful language. However, off in a corner, I happened to notice a kindly-looking elderly man standing amid the crush with a warm smile on his face.

Squeezing through the mob of screaming, perspiring, cursing passengers, I managed to get near enough to the smiling old gentleman to say, "Pardon me, sir. I can't help noticing how goodnaturedly you seem to be taking this dreadful subway ride. How is it that you can view the whole situation with a sly sense of humor, while all those around you are working themselves up into a frenzy of hate?"

The old man looked at me with twinkling eyes, then tapped his head gently with a forefinger, and said softly, "I'm sick!"

The baseball season is about over, and it won't be long now before owners of the Major League teams hold their annual winter meetings. It is at these meetings that they carry on responsible discussions about the expansion of baseball, and how to prevent the establishment of the Continental League. It is also at these meetings that they try to improve their teams by trading players they don't want or need for players other teams don't want or need. Then, we'll be reading about multi-player deals with three or four clubs shifting ballplayers like chessmen. Which got us thinking: Maybe the nations of the world can learn something from baseball. Maybe a country with two men of presidential calibre, f'rinstance, could trade one of them for a much needed college instructor. In short, we wonder what it would be like. . . .

certainly offer the best entertainment. Now, we read where ABC-TV is increasing its time-segments allotted for commercials. Naturally the other networks (never ones to turn down a quick buck) will follow suit. And the pattern that has become so painfully obvious continues - TV plugs getting longer and more numerous, interrupting shows, surrounding station-breaks, jamming in between programs, and slowly approaching the point in the not-too-distant future . . .

TAKE OVER COMPLETELY

Good evening. My name is David Susskind . . . and this program is called "Open End." Tonight, we will conduct a round-table discussion on the subject: "Is Too Much Entertainment Ruining Commercial Television?" Let's start off with our first guest . . . the noted author, teacher, and short-order cook, Prof. Norbert Klutz-

Thank you, Professor Klutz. And now, let's hear I agree with Professor Klutz, from our next guest . . . a charming lady . . . the David! eminent social worker, child psychologist, and National "Immy" Champion, Dr. Millicent Filch.

Thank you, David. My answer is-yes! Yes, I believe there is entirely too much entertainment on television. It's crowding our commercials right off the airways. This is not fair to TV advertising agencies . . . it is not fair to TV sponsors . . . and it is not fair to the TV buying public. I think we might need some kind of Federal regulation here . . .

**WAKE ME WHEN IT'S OVER ". . . our sentiments exactly!"

It seems to me that our TV commercials are being constantly disrupted by irritating programs. This sort of entertainment tends to cheapen the commercials, and sets a bad example for young consumers. The only show that doesn't over-entertain these days is the Jack Paar show. In my opinion, that man deserves a medal for presenting a program of 100%, solid UNINTERRUPTED SELLING!

TV in Review by Jack Gold

Your reviewer must confess to a distinct feeling of disappointment in last night's new Parliament Commerical (Channel 4, 8:01 to 8:02 PM), especially after the network's publicity buildup over recent weeks.

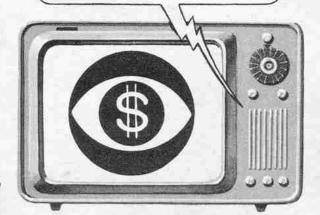

The basic theme of this pitch, though valid, was handled in a trite way; the pacing and acting was poor; and the dialogue just didn't ring true. On the other hand, the close-up of the cigarette, shown at the climax of the show, was strikingly photographed, and very believable.

The main story line dealt with the "extra margin" needed in many feats of daring - in this case, driving a racing car. What the author seemed to be saying (if I got his message correctly) is that, just as a racing car driver needs an extra margin of safety and protection, so do today's smokers need an extra margin of safety and protection in their cigarettes. In this case, the extra margin is purportedly supplied by the special 1/4 inch recessed filter on each Parliament.

Well, it's an interesting theme, and one that can stand plenty of airing on television. I'm all for good, healthy controversy. But I do feel that the point could have been made more convincingly. The first twelve or fourteen seconds, as the cars zoomed around the track, were admittedly fascinating. But the dramatic impact went steadily downhill from there on, and by the time the minute was over, your reviewer's head was beginning to nod. The best that can be said for this new commercial is "adequate". I hope, however, that my views will not discourage other television ad copywriters from tackling this important and worthwhile theme more successfully.

nation's video waves.

The "Raid" 60-seconder, aired at 8:49 PM (EST) last night, racked up a healthy 28.9 Nielsen. Running opposite it on major channels were two drug product plugs, Dristan and Bromo-Seltzer, which grabbed ratings of 16.4 and 11.2 respectively.

Raid's 28.9 rating projects out to a total viewership of 13,500,000 — an impressive chunk of prime time audience. Success of the pitch will prove bright feathers in the caps of both sponsor and agency, who mother-henned the Johnson project together.

All-time record for commercial viewership was set by Westinghouse on June 4, 1960, when Betty Furness couldn't get her refrigerator door open.

**BEN-HUR "... loved Ben, hated Hurl"

Just as I figured—pant-pant—Dad and Mom's team was too strong for us. They licked us 72—13. Now I'm exhausted, and I still have a big day ahead of me—running the country.

I just flew up from Gettysburg, Jack. My favorite golf ball is missing, and I believe I may have lost it here on the White House green last October!

MEANWHILE, BACK AT THE WHITE HOUSE ...

Where's Kennedy? He called a special meeting with us three top leaders of the opposition party for 11:00 AM, and he's an hour late. I've a lot of important campaigning for '64 to do today, and —oops! I mean, I have work to do at the Governor's mansion in Albany!

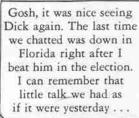

I'm already late for a meeting with my campaign manager, and oops! I mean I have to get back to my law practice in California! And I've got an important conference with Herbert Hoover, Douglas MacArthur, and other members of my group's liberal wing!

DON MARTIN DEPT. PART II

Don Martin spent some time in prison recently due to a typographical error. His papers read: "Admit Mr. Martin to the Big House" instead of "Admit Mr. Martin to the Bug House"! Before the mistake could be rectified, and Don could be sent on to the proper institution for observation, he did some observing of his own. For example, he watched:
