AN MTV CRIBS TOUR DE FARCE

This is my first time writing to you. And of all times to start, it is probably the dumbest thing for a person to write about. A few days ago I was reading "Even Yet Still Further More Badly Needed Warning Labels For Today's Hottest CD's" (MAD #414) when I came to the "secret message to Mariah Carey's lambs." Mariah, in the "message" said that there are eight Martians living in her trees. Earlier the same day I was watching MTV's Cribs in which they tour celebrity residences. In that episode they happened to tour Mariah's crib. It turns out that she doesn't live in a house with trees (or a lawn at that), but in a penthouse in New York City. Even in the house, no trees. Just thought you should know.

Chris Clark, Valparaiso, IN

Clark-Bar — As our way of saying "thanks" for your letter attempting to correct us, we are going to take our readers on a special MAD Magazine Cribbs tour of your house: Well come on in! Over here in Chris' living room it looks as if all the walls are padded! Up on the ceiling there's lots and lots of tinfoil, we guess to stop the rays from being beamed in, eh, Chris? Moving on to the kitchen, all the sharp objects and kitchen utensils seem to be missing. Now here's Chris' bedroom. Oh, look! There's a nice big window with bars on it! And here's the bed, well, really, it's a cot with some sort of leather arm and leg restraints. We love the fact that you have carried the padded wall motif throughout the entire house, Chris! And you say you live here for free because Medicaid pays for the whole thing? Sweet. Thanks for letting us drop by, Chris! —Ed.

Make A Dumb Wish Foundation™

I would like to make a dumb wish. Every time I pick up an issue of your magazine, I see the most charming face on the cover. Yes, I remember the first time I saw him! With his red hair, gap-tooth and ugly but cute freckles. It is my dumb wish to go on a little date with that guy, Neuman! My friends all say "come on DD, he's soooo not your type!" Deep down inside I know he is. So please try to find it in that heart of yours to set me up!

D. DeFrange, Akron, OH

DD — Thanks for your letter. We suspect, however, it was misdirected. We are the Make A Dumb Wish Foundation™, not the Make A Pathetic Wish Foundation™ (™ pending). Nonetheless, thanks for writing! —Ed.

THE PRACTICE MAKES IMPERFECT

The Practice TV star Kelli Williams chose to remain silent when asked if she liked seeing herself spoofed in MAD #394. Nonetheless, we find her quite appealing

PICKY, PICKY, PICKY

I went to the mailbox today and received my latest issue of MAD (imagine my surprise). Then I read it (imagine my disappointment). One page 38 of #414, you list Michael Jordan's cause-of-death betting odds. Directly to the right of his left ear, you have a Chicago White Sox jersey hanging on the line. Mistake! While his Airness did play on the Sox farm team, he played for the Birmingham Barons, which has a totally different uniform. Yes, this is nit-picking, but I'm a nit-picky kind of guy.

Bill Denham, Wetumpka, AL

Billy Boy — Thanks for writing your "interesting" letter. As our way of saying a big thank you, we have commissioned a special Cause-of-Death Betting Odds just for you, Bill Denham:

Dies a slow, lonely death with no family, friends or pets around due to his excessive nit-pickiness 1:1

Pummeled to death by all the people he pissed off with his nit-pickiness 1:1

Terminal Carpal Tunnel Syndrome for writing moronic nit-picky letters to magazines, newspapers and alumni bulletins 1:1

We hope you have enjoyed this. And readers take note — we will be accepting Cemetery Snaps for Bill Denham in the very near future, we suspect! —Ed.

My name is Anthony and I am 12 years old. I am writing this letter to you because I just want to say that I worship your magazine. I have gotten every single issue of your magazine since January, 1999. I wish I could subscribe to your magazine badly, but it is difficult to get a subscription because I live in Canada. I just want to say that MAD is the best thing ever created in history!

CLAWS AND EFFECT

Regarding the lament over "no girls allowed" (see Letters Page # 414), rather than a sex change, Sophie Johnson should do as I do. Put the subscription in your cat's name. It should save you the cost and hassle of obtaining 'nads.

Carmine Maxwell Magan aka
Susan Magan, Amagansett, NY

Carmine Maxwell? What the hell kind of name is that for a cat? The fumes from the litter box must have really been cooking on the day you named him! Okay, readers, this month's challenge: do you have a pet with a name as stupid as Carmine Maxwell (if that's even humanly possible)? If so, send us a non-returnable photo of your pet either reading, peeing or clawing MAD along with the stupid pet's name to: Amy, The Big Fur Ball, c/o MAD Magazine, 1700 Broadway, 5th Floor, New York, NY 10019.

Ronald Barber of St. Louis, MO scores a one-year subscription for nabbing America's Most Wanted star John Walsh with a copy of MAD. We can't help but wonder if John agreed to have his picture taken with MAD before he read our ridiculous satire "America's Most Wanton" in MAD #414!

Cupid is as Cupid Does

Back in MAD #414 we asked all you incurable romantics to send in a Valentine's Day card using Alfred's image or name (in verse) to express your deepest thoughts about your sweetie. The volume of stuff we received was overwhelming, but the quality was well, kind of underwhelming! But hey, love is what makes the world go around and it is with love that we present some of our readers' valentines:

Alfred E. Neuman or Courtland Sweetie White
Who is the throb of my heart tonight?
Both have freckles, rusty hair and a grin,
Both make me smile and feel young again!

Cathie White, Asheville, NC

"My Alfred"

Valentine, please be mine...
I had a crush on you when
I was nine...
You were soooo fine...
You seemed older then
You seem younger now
I'm no longer 9, I'm now 59
If you won't be mine...
I'd settle for your cosmetic expert!
Who must be fine...
Having faded your freckles, reset your ears,
Tinted your hairpiece and fitted your dentures...
You are now looking so fine
Won't you be my Valentine?

J. Gamble, Las Vegas, NV

You are the flower in my garden
You're the sun in my sky
If it wasn't for you,
I'd gouge out my eyes.
You're the leaves on my tree
The car on my street
You are the fish in my ocean
And the scum on my feet
You're the hair on my head
And the hair on my butt
You're the main reason
That I'm a self-loathing nut.
You're the love of my life
Who are you assumin'?
Of course, the one and only
Alfred E. Neuman!

Nick Megalis,
North Huntingdon, PA

My sweet! So complex!
I love like a simpleton.
Alfred E. Neuman

Steven Rimpici
Cornwall, NY

Margo Sable Jensen and Family, Fort Lee, NJ

Your hair is red,
Your eyes are blue,
Oh, Alfred E.,
How I love you.

The days are long,
And so are you,
Your gap-toothed smile
Just makes me drool.

Oh, how I dream,
Forlorn, confined,
My Alfred E.,
My Valentine

Cindy Avina, Sylmar, CA

Roses are red,
Violets are blue,
If you don't mind
the smell,
Then this schmuck
is for you!

Barry Fries,
Burnaby, Canada

Linda Carol,
Oakland, CA

I think that I shall see
One who causes such potrzebie
So on this day, this excuse to neck:
Hey Alfie, please be my fondest...yecch!

Timothy Chambers, Providence, RI

My MAD Valentine
BOOM! goes my heart when you walk by
Like a nitroglycerine bomb
From Spy Vs. Spy

A MAD look at love says we are a match,
Despite the restraining order
And my iron anklet.

I love you Jay
And you will love me too,
That is, if you value
your precious little life.

P.S. if anyone asks, Alfred E. Neuman made me do it.

Bridget Goldhahn, Audubon, PA

"Alfred E. Neuman:
My One and Only Love"

Alfred E.,
You are so irresistible to me.

I love everything about you Alfred,
O where to start,
Your fiery red hair burns
like the torch I
Carry for you in my heart.

Your stupid grin,
Which makes me laugh,
I think about you everyday,
When I read MAD in math class.

I'll never forget you Alfred,
Your rosy cheeks,
Your freckles, too.
Never change, you
big-eared weirdo,
Because I will always love you.

Jared Lee, Owensboro, KY

To My Dearest Alfred (Admiring from Afar)

What words can describe the sweet stupidity and charm that is Alfred E?
If people were lights in a marquee, the dimmest bulb would be he.
For all his idiotic airs and innuendo, what drooly, carefree thoughts do dwell behind that vacuous stare and gap-toothed grin?
Indeed some sort of plesantry affects the corners of his mouth—

Blissful ignorance, perhaps?
How I envy that bliss!

In a world of complicated mazes, detail and directions,
He floats through life—
a true Nowhere Man.

And sometimes I wish, though I know I never can,
As my mind is forever burdened with intellectual anguish and constant awareness—
That I could join my dear Alfred by his side
As his equally clueless
Nowhere Woman.

Seller Options No one bid on this thing? And you're surprised? You tried to get rid of this thing at the church bazaar, your kids' school's flea market, two consecutive yard sales, and then even the Salvation Army refused to take it — and you were hoping to sell it here? For money? You've already spent enough time, effort and money trying to lose this; maybe it's time you throw it away and move on.

Seller assumes all notoriety for listing this item. You should contact the seller to resolve any asinine, nit-picky questions before bidding. And it's always a good idea to waste as much of the seller's time possible by following up each of the seller's replies to one of your questions with another pointless question. Especially if you really have no serious interest in bidding on this item in the first place.

Description

You'll be fit to be tied if you miss this opportunity — a chance to own an item from funny gal/fashion plate Paula Poundstone's wardrobe! Standard 56" men's necktie features the logo of popular charitable organization "Save the Children." Playful enough for zany gameshow appearances, casual enough for a stint in rehab, and yet dignified enough for the courtroom, this silk-polyester blend tie is free from major spots and stains. Won't you adopt this tie and give it a good home? It's no contest that you'll want this for your very own! Don't endanger yourself by missing out on this unique item by committing the lewd act of forgetting to bid — act now! No reserve!

Lot includes Certificate of Authenticity and coupon good for a free forty-five minute stand-up routine performed by Paula herself at your next dinner party in an effort to get her career back on track. Don't let this one get away! Snatch it up before it's too late!

Sometimes producers leave out a fact here and there when they make a biographical movie. But in a recent hit, Ron Howard left out a ton of facts here, there and everywhere! Facts like the subject of the movie was married several times, had a child out wedlock, liked to drink a lot and had numerous hetero- and homosexual affairs! Seemed like he was after anything in skirts and pants! Wouldn't it be more on the money to say this guy had...

A BOOTY-FULL MIND

ARTIST: ANGELO TORRES

WRITER: DICK DEBARTOLO

Your country needs you, Mash, that's why I brought you here to the secret War Room at the Pentagon! With your incredible deductive powers, we want you to help crack enemy codes for the military! It will be your way to aid our country's fight in the Cold War! And if you can use your incredible deductive powers to help me pick the winning lottery numbers, that will be your way to aid me personally! I'm broke! I only own this one hat, and as you'll see, I wear the same suit all the time!

With my brilliant mind, Pollack, I can look at these rows and rows of numbers and immediately make a logical deduction! Unfortunately, I'm not so brilliant since I didn't ask for a percentage of the gross profits of this movie instead of a one-time paycheck! Hey, can you fault me? Not even my super brain could have figured that this totally fictionalized and homogenized account of my life would pull in so much hard cash! However, I do see another Academy Award for my acting! I just pray I'm not hallucinating!

I'm so glad I have you as a roommate here at Princeton, Mash! You have the most amazing mind!

Are you impressed that I solved this complex mathematics problem that no one has been able to solve for years?

No, I'm impressed that you found a way to write on glass! Who would have thought that was possible! Now you can impress me even more by finding a way to clean it off, so we can look outside again!

I know we all want to go home with that beautiful blonde! I've worked out a definite system that ensures you always go home with a girl!

Great! What is it?

Hit on the ugliest girl in the bar! The one no other guy is interested in! It certainly beats rejection from the pretty ones!

Mash, you cut my class and you refuse to read any assigned books! If you want to stay in school, you'll have to prove that you're working on some kind of breakthrough project!

I AM working on a breakthrough project! It's only the 1950s, but I'm demonstrating the way students will act in the 1990s and beyond! They'll skip school, ignore homework assignments and never pay back student loans!

Sure, sure! Next you'll be telling me that some social misfit will invent a typewriter that has a TV screen instead of paper!

You must be very smart!

I am! In the last panel, I was just a student and in this panel, I'm a college professor! You can't advance any faster!

I'm smart too! I got those construction workers to stop making noise outside the classroom!

Good work! What did you say to them?

I merely pointed out that if they stopped now and started again after five, they'd make more on overtime

Tell me, Professor Mash, do you ever go out for dinner?

I do, but I better warn you! As intelligent as I am, sometimes I act like I'm a little out of my mind!

Did you ever consider that you're much older than I am, and I could probably get anyone I want, but yet I'm asking you for a date?

Which means?

Which means we're a good team! It's obvious I'm a little out of my mind, too!

I can tell you're a very straightforward man, Professor Mash, and that you'd like to take me to bed as quickly as possible!

True! What gave me away?

This is our first date, and you wore pajamas to the restaurant! I want to be straightforward too! I don't want to end up single and pregnant!

No problem! I'm wearing pajamas and a condom

Everyone will tell you they know what racism is — cross burnings, causing someone harm based solely on the color of their skin terrorizing those different from themselves. They'll tell you it involves discrimination in hiring and selling real estate, and denying opportunities to people because of what they look like. Then these same people will be quick to tell you they've never done anything like that and they condemn anyone who does, and they're probably right. But what about those actions where nobody gets hurt — little, teensy actions that come and go in a flash — actions the individuals are probably not even aware they're committing — these are the actions that brand them...

...Insist it's habit that makes them call Martin Luther King Boulevard by its former name.

...Always seem to find themselves on supermarket checkout lines manned by their own kind, no matter how much longer the wait.

...Refer to In Living Color as "the show Jim Carrey was on."

...Often forget to pick up things at the local 7-Eleven because they're too busy staring at the clerk's "dot."

...Never wonder why there are no black people on Friends.

...Always just assume the white guy is in charge.

...Pulled for Mark McGwire over Sammy Sosa.

...Go to the country club and hand their keys to the first minority they see.

...Always have a perfectly logical reason why they didn't let the guy with the turban merge into their lane.

...See a Native American and assume he's got a piece of a casino somewhere.

For years, students too lazy to actually read the books that their teachers assigned to them resorted to reading more compact versions such as Cliffs Notes or Monarch Notes. But with our increasingly ADD-ridden society (That's Attention Deficit Disorder in case you're not paying attention!), most students are too lazy to read even the smallest study guides. The solution to this problem is simple: Find the smallest, most compact literary style and turn that into a study aid! Thus, we bring you...

It's nearly Kentucky Derby time again. A time for those who follow the ponies to figure out who will win, who will place, and who might show. What will be the perfecta, the superfecta and the trifecta? Who cares?! For us, the only reason to watch the Kentucky Derby is to take in the spectacle of the event — the losers betting their last buck in a desperate attempt to "get even," the women with their ridiculous hats and, of course, TV's lame attempt to stretch a two-minute event into a one-hour show so they can sell some commercial time! It's the same sad sights every year. You can bet on it. And in the unlikely event you might like to, here's...

MAD'S HA GUIDE

It's 500 to 1 that the winning jockey will get to do one of those "I'm going to Disney World" commercials, since it's unlikely he would meet the park rides' height requirements.

KENTUCKY DERBY

It's 3 to 2 that the TV camera will accidentally catch Pete Rose using pre-race downtime to check on his Knicks/Lakers parlay.

It's even money that NBC's coverage will include several close-ups of the cast of the "hot, new, must-see-TV sitcom" cast — all of whom just happen to be sitting in the stands.

It's 4 to 1 that, despite using careful analysis and cold logic to come up with a winner, you'll still conclude that the exposed hat label on the guy in front of you is a sign from the wagering gods.

It's 2 to 1 that NBC will introduce some innovative mounted minicam to bring us confusing views of the race that we got along just fine not seeing before.

DICAPPING TO THE

FREAK SHOW

It's 4 to 1 that the network will trot out some legendary handicapping expert whose colorful analysis could only be understood by the ghost of Jimmy the Greek.

It's 12 to 1 that, with a little urging, the guy handing out Gamblers Anonymous material will go partners with you in a pick-six parlay.

It's even money that some poor unsuspecting sap in the crowd will experience the whole Kentucky Mint Julep experience without actually having to buy one.

It's 6 to 5 that in the background of any Jack Whitaker commentaries will be guys settling "dead/not dead" wagers.

It's 6 to 5 that, despite some perpetual loser's countless hours of study and research, his wife's method of betting her Uncle Walter's birthday will be the only one that pays off.

It's 7 to 2 that, in the winners circle photo, it will be easier to spot some doofus who plays golf with the owner's accountant than the lowly stablehand who works 18 hours a day looking after the horse.

Well, it's official: despite years of coy denials that nobody believed, Britney Spears and Justin Timberlake of 'N SYNC are now "out in the open" as a romantically-involved couple. Well, you know what's coming next: In the words of the old song "first comes Love...then comes Marriage...then comes the Dream-Offspring of the Entire Recording Industry in a Baby Carriage!" And, what will life be like for the children of these two music superstars? Most magazines would want you to wait until after they're born to find out. Not us! Here's MAD's advance sneak-peek at...

The boys attempting to take their first steps - with the help of world-famous O-Town

Naughty naughty, Monique!
Getting into mommy's makeup case!
(Hey, looks pretty good, though.
I couldn't have done it better myself!)

Matilda, right after her first implants - (not THOSE! I mean collagen lip implants! We're not letting her get the other kind until she's at least six!)

Monique's first day of school (with her very first entourage!)

Daddy reads to the boys at bedtime. (It's their favorite: the 1998 'N SYNC contract with RCA Records!)

Their debut album goes Double Platinum - AND they all successfully complete potty training - in the same week!!!

Monique, on a play date with the daughters of Christina Aguilera, Mandy Moore, and Jessica Simpson. I think Monique is third from the left.

...Report my financial information to those Orwellian bastards at Equifax and TRW, who will release this data freely to anyone except me?

...Send me through a hopeless touch-tone labyrinth when I called with a question about my bill?

...Charge me a cash-advance ATM fee on top of the fee I'm already paying to the bank that owns the ATM, effectively boning me twice for one lousy transaction?

...Raise my interest rate without notice?

...Sell my name, address and phone number to thousands of junk mail outfits and telemarketers?

...Allow me to charge over my limit and then sock me with an "over the limit" penalty?

...Keep a record of my purchases to create a "spending profile" which you can also sell over and over?

...Attempt to bleed me dry even further with your "Travelers Advantage Credit Card Registry and Protection Plan" or similar scheme, which is nothing more than an excuse to bill me a monthly "membership" fee?

Hello! I'm Alec Baldwin! I once had a career as a movie actor! Now my career seems to be hosting Saturday Night Live and doing off-screen narration! Remember me in Cats & Dogs as the voice of Butch, the Chief Agency Dog? No? This will be even more forgetful! I'll be doing the voiceover narration for this film! It's fashioned as an old-time storybook fable and has cute chapter titles! It's all smoke and mirrors to make audiences forget there is no real story here! It's a quirky, irreverent farce! That's movie-speak for: Don't expect huge laughs! Here is...

THE ROYAL PAININTHEBUMS

ARTIST: TOM RICHMOND

WRITER: ARNIE KOGEN

I'm Royal Paininthebum! I'm patriarch of this disturbed family! This is not a happy bunch! We make the Menendez family look like the Osmonds! I guess I haven't been a perfect father! I playfully shot one kid with a BB gun! I trashed my adopted daughter's childhood play! I stole from their trust funds! I abandoned them! I made my children what they are today — depressed, glum and suicidal! But I'd like to make amends! I love my four children! Yes, you only see three in the film! I sold one of them for much-needed cash!

I'm Ethelfuel, the mom! Royal sucked the life out of the children, so I sent him packing 22 years ago! I brought up the kids myself! Somehow, on my watch they went from gifted children with great potential to complete failures! Fortunately, I have my work! I'm an archeologist! Lately, I've been looking to dig up old ruins in New York City, like a Woody Allen movie script from the 1970s! No luck! So we'll have to make do with this one — which tries to be the same thing but is not nearly as funny!

"Meet the parents!" I'll never say those words again! I'm Spaz! When I was nine my Dad shot me in the hand with a BB gun! When I was twelve he stole from my trust fund! Then I got married! My wife was killed in a plane crash! I can't prove it but I think my Dad shot down the plane! I hate the bastard! If you think I'm bitter and depressed, meet my sister!

I'm Maggot! I'm sullen, I'm morose, I'm intense! That's during my happy hour! If I ever had a happy hour! My hobbies: soaking in tubs, smoking like a chimney, lesbian affairs, promiscuous hetero flings and staring vacantly! I'm about as emotional as an air duct! I have never smiled or laughed in my life! Read this MAD parody and join me!

I'm Rackety! When I was seventeen I was a national champion tennis player, a successful pro! Somewhere along the way I lost my job! I'm in love with my sister, Maggot! I think it's okay, isn't it? She's adopted! What's my life like right now? Let me put it this way: it's not quite as good as what my pet falcon leaves on my shoulder!

I'm Eli Crash, a nutsy neighbor of the Paininthebums who spent most of my young life in their crazy house! Which is why I'm as freaky as they are! Kind of like "behind innocuous lines"! In this film I have fourteen minutes of fame! I'd tell you about the fifteenth minute, but I don't remember it! I was too stoned! Oh, I'm also in love with Maggot!

I'm Raleigh St.Droopy, an older dude married to Maggot! I could be the only one in this opening splash NOT having sex with her! I'm a world-weary neurologist! A neurologist is someone who examines people's brains to explore why they do destructive things and screw up their lives! Like, say, a movie star taking a role with only four or five lame lines of dialogue in it! Saturday Night Live, it's not!

I'm Henry Studman! I'm the accountant and business manager for the Paininthebum family! I'm solid, I'm dependable, I'm decent, I'm polite! I'm not suicidal or depressed! I don't know what the hell I'm doing in this film! I'm too old for this sh**!

Chapter One

Ethelfuel Paininthebum raised her three children as prodigies. Each child exhibited a unique talent bordering on genius.

Spaz was a boy wonder financial whiz! A genius in real estate and the stock market!

I'm giving a buy signal on Microsoft, also a strong buy on Intel, and pick up a thing called AOL! I know it's the 1970s and these companies haven't been created yet, but trust me, I'm decades ahead of my time! Oops, gotta go! Emergency! Not a stock crash! I've got a huge zit! I'm 14! Oh, by the way, when a thing called Enron goes public...dump it!

Maggot was a successful playwright! She won a $50,000 grant at age 15! Her first play was performed when she was in the third grade! Rave reviews with one noticeable exception!

It was drek! You call that a Second Act ending? There was no character arc for the tooth fairy! And the plot twist with the dancing tulips in Act Three...what the hell were you thinking?

But Daddy, I'm only seven!

Then I'll explain it in terms you can understand! Your play was caca!

Maggot was adopted! Royal never let her forget it!

This is my adopted daughter, Maggot!

Dad, must you say that?

Correction! This is my anorexic adopted daughter, Maggot!

Hoo boy!

The Paininthebum children are now all grown up! Which is unfortunate! The three geniuses turned out to be nut jobs!

Rackety was a professional tennis champ at age 17! He had a meltdown and retired from tennis at 26! He's now traveling around the world in a deep funk!

I see we are nearing my favorite destination — The Sea of Despair! Send a telegram: "I love you, I need you, I want to feel your body on mine!"

Who should I send it to?

Send one to my sister! And one to my pet falcon, Malcolm!

While Rackety was sailing the seven seas, his sister, Maggot, was also in deep water! Tepid tub water!

Maggot, this is freaky behavior! Every day you soak in the tub for hours! Each day is a duplicate of the day before! Don't you get tired of doing the exact same thing every 24 hours?

It worked for you in Groundhog Day!

In Groundhog Day I was funny! In this film you're just wet and depressed!

Spaz was paranoid! Overly concerned with safety! He ran late night drills with his two boys, Sullen and Anxious!

Why must we practice fire drills at three a.m.?

Because, Sullen, it's a dangerous world out there! There's fire, there's gas leaks, there's plague! And if natural forces don't destroy you, then family certainly will, with betrayal, deceit and angst! Family will crush the life out of you! They'll tear your heart out!

But Dad, YOU'RE family!

So what's your point?

The only one doing well was their neighbor, Wally Crash, the pothead novelist, who achieved sudden literary celebrity!

"And then Custer said to his guide, 'Hey, man, is that Montana or a tumbling tumbleweed?'"

Wow, is he ripped!

The guy's a phony! Has he ever been west of 8th Avenue?

I hear he once moseyed over to Riverside Drive and 145th Street!

He's a one-book wonder! The question is: Does he have another novel in him?

With his talent, I don't think he has a leaflet in him!

Ethelfuel, marry me! I can bring stability into your life!

After my first husband, Carrot Top would bring stability into my life!

Be careful turning the TV knob with your toe! You can electrocute yourself!

Stop putting a happy spin on my life!

Maggot, we're worried about you! Orca the Killer Whale spends less time in the water than you do!

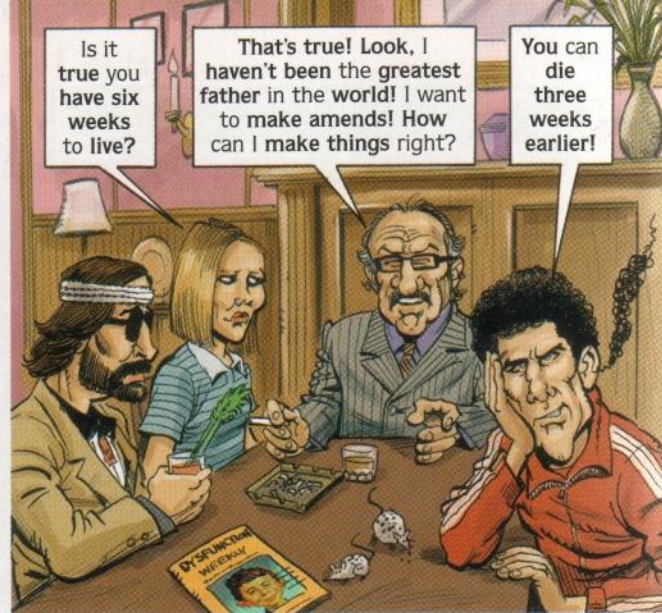

Nonsense! I'm fine, Mother!

We're rich! We can get you help! You need a change of scenery!

Okay! Perhaps you can rent me a summer tub in the South of France!

Royal bonded with his grandkids! Instead of baseball and fishing his choice was vandalism and crime!

Rackety tried to put the past behind him and move on with his life, but realized he didn't have a life!

I failed at tennis, I failed at love, I failed at life! My father abandoned me! My falcon flew away from me! My sister has given up having sex with me for someone out of the family! How sick is that? I have no reason to live anymore! Oops, damn it! I cut my fingernail instead of my wrist! I just failed at suicide!

Final Chapter

At Ethelfuel and Henry Studman's wedding, Eli crashed his car in a drugged-out stupor. The bad news is, the dog was killed. The worse news is, everyone else in this dysfunctional family lived! For awhile, at least...

Royal died at age 67! He was a con man up until the very end of his life! And beyond...!
