Most people are so concerned about getting in the last word, they ignore all the previous ones!

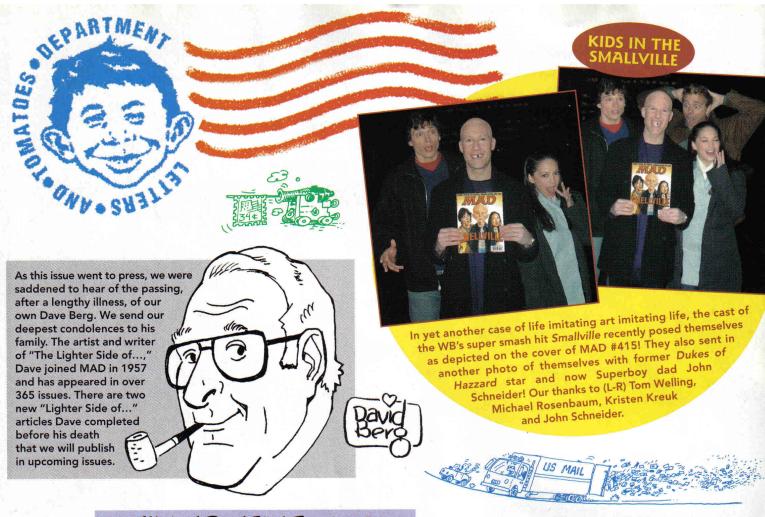

AN EMBARRASSMENT OF RICHARD'S DEPARTMENT:

An Important Product Recall Notice

Make A Dumb Wish Foundation TM

My name is Kelley Thornsberry. I am writing this letter to see if the Make A Dumb Wish Foundation™ can make my dumb wish come true. My friends Claire Shelden and Katie Fry and I are each writing you a letter and we have made a bet to see whose letter gets published, if any. There is a certain amount of money involved and if you print my letter and not my friends' you would make my dumb wish come true. Claire is a huge liar and will say Katie and I never read MAD, but all she wants is the money. All Katie ever does is read my old issues and never, ever buys them herself. Also, my dumb wish includes getting a free issue next month.

Kelley Thornsberry, Lewistown, MT

I am a very big fan of your magazine and have read almost every issue since 1999 and would like to talk to you about a bet made with my friends. We are all going to write to you and whoever's letter you publish (if you publish any of them) wins the bet. So I'm asking you to please publish my letter. Even if you don't, could you please send me next month's issue free? The letters that you should look for will be from Kelley Thornsberry and Claire Shelden.
Katie Fry, Lewsitown, MT

My name is Claire Shelden. I am writing to you to make a dumb wish. My friends, Kelley Thornsberry and Katie Fry are also writing to you with a dumb wish. We have a bet to see whose letter will get published. The winner gets an undisclosed amount of money. If you do this for me, you will make my dumb wish come true and maybe this will be the highlight of my teenage years. You could be a part of that, and all you have to do is give me a few measly inches on your Letters Page! You should publish mine because I am the only real fan of MAD, they hardly ever buy it! So if you publish their letters and not mine, it would be a shame to all MAD fans everywhere! Kelley will say I lie and that I don't read MAD, but I do read it, they don't! Could you send me next month's issue? Thanks so much for making my dumb wish come true! Claire Shelden, Lewistown, MT

Hey Ladies — Well, well, well, nothing gets us more excited at the Make A Dumb WishPoundation™ than a good old fashioned catfight — meow! Because all three letters were so heartfelt and laced with craven desire, we decided to print all three and since all three of you asked for next month's issue for free, we are going to make that dumb wish come true as well! Kelley will get pages 1-16, Katie will get pages 17-32 and Claire will get 33-48! Your non-tax deductible interest and support of the Make A Dumb Wish Foundation™ is appreciated! —Ed.

THE NAME BLAME

Your movie spoof "The Royal Paininthebums" (MAD #417) caused a royal pain in my head. Owen Wilson's character is introduced as Eli Cash. He is then referred to as Wally Crash a couple of times and in the end he is called Eli again. He had a drug problem in the movie, not multiple personalities! Jim Dewey, Burton, OH

Jimbo — So you think you're so smart? It just so happens that we were using our spoof of The Royal Tenenbaums to pay homage, a tip of the hat if you will, to two of our favorite people, both long since deceased: Inventor Eli Whitney and comedian Wally Cox. Now don't you feel small? Now don't you feel stupid? You owe us a letter of apology! —Ed.

THE TOOTH IS OUT THERE

Out of pure curiosity, how did Alfred E. Neuman lose his tooth?

Nate Martell, Spokane, WA

Nate Dogg — It was a work related injury, 'nuff said! —Ed.

LORD OF THE DING-A-LINGS

I feel very privileged for getting my letter printed in MAD magazine. But, as I was reading The Lord of the Rings issue (MAD #416) I felt it my duty to report all the mistakes I could find, just as I did with the Harry Potter issue (MAD #412). First, Gandalf should be smoking with Bilbo on the hill, not Frodo. Second, the group meets Arwen in the woods. Third, the Fellowship has already passed those giant statues before they were attacked by Orcs. Lastly, and even though it doesn't really matter, Aspercreme isn't even a play on the word Saruman.

Aaron Grono, Forest Lake, MN

Aaron — Wow! We're willing to bet that you've seen that movie dozens of times! And we'll go double or nothing that you've never gone with a date! Be honest, when was the last time you went out on a date? Better yet, when was the last time you left your house? Seriously, take the tin foil off of your ceiling, put on some long pants and go for a nice walk in the park! —Ed.

HE LIKES MIKE

Today I received my MAD in the mail and as usual I went straight to the Letters Page. In issue #417 I saw a letter written by Billy Denham. He complained to you that Michael Jordan played for the Birmingham Barons in his baseball career and nothing else. I had to reply because MJ is my favorite athlete and I couldn't stand hearing wrong info about him. I also don't like people who correct MAD Magazine. If he really knew something about His Airness he would know that Michael played for another team along with the Barons in his baseball career. This team is the Scottsdale Scorpions. He also advanced to the Nashville Sounds, but ended his season early, in the Spring when MLB players went on strike. If you dare to correct MAD, at least get your facts right.

Andy Klein, Boston, MA

Raggedy Andy — Your knowledge of minor league baseball is indeed impressive, yet we can't help but think that you too may benefit from a nice walk in the park with Aaron Grono! —Ed.

HOW TO REACH US

Please address Correspondence To: MAD, Dept. 420, 1700 Broadway, New York, New York, 10019.

MAD welcomes reader submissions. Manuscripts will not be returned or acknowledged, however, unless they are accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope! MAD doesn't read faxed submissions!

SOUND DEFECTS

I want to recognize the excellence of artist John Caldwell and writer Michael Gallagher on their use of sound in "Drama on Page 14" in issue #416. As the world's leading authority on Don Martin lexiconology and the compiler of the internationally renowned Don Martin Dictionary, it was nice to see these two gentlemen not rip off a single sound effect. Don Martin used the sound "SHIKA" as in "SHIKA SHIKA SHIKA," which is the sound of a man scratching his back, but Martin never used "SHIKA SHIK SHIK."

Ed Norris, Lancaster, MA

Eddie — Thanks for your letter, but, to be honest, we don't give a Shik! —Ed.

STRIKE UP THE SAND

When daysatthebeach.com president Matt Long wanted to promote their Can You Dig It sand tools at a recent toy show in New York City, they knew they needed something appealing and eyecatching. With no appealing or eye-catching ideas, they instead hired world-famous sand sculptress Karen Fralich to create an Alfred E. Neuman in sand using only their tools. O.K. readers — here's your task for this month: send us your own sand sculptures of Alfred. Or maybe you would like to work in a different medium — marbles or jellybeans perhaps — maybe a mixed medium of things found in the trash. Send us your non-returnable photos of your best creative efforts to Amy "The Big Easel" c/o MAD Magazine, 1700 Broadway, New York, NY 10019. We'll put the best ones in a future issue!

MAD's

From the horrifying, five octave, eardrum-splitting screech of Mariah Carey to the horrifying, mind-numbing, morosely monotone drone of Enya to the horrifying, intensely unpleasant pounding and pontificating of Creed, today's music scene offers a wide variety of sounds and stars to disturb, alienate and incense everyone. But who and what are the industry's absolute biggest offenders? We're sure you have your list, and we not-so-humbly invite you to compare it with our own...

WORST VIUS THINGS ABOUT...

Record companies that charge $18 for a CD that costs them 75 cents to make...

...then go to Congress and complain that Napster is stealing.

Every single installment of VH1's Behind The Music, which has only two possible endings:

A. The subject's back in the biz and on the verge of making a huge comeback with their new internet-only album, even though they've sold only five records since 1976 and this is the first camera crew that's paid attention to them since the Shah ruled Iran.

B. They were just about to make a huge comeback, except whoops, they dropped dead.

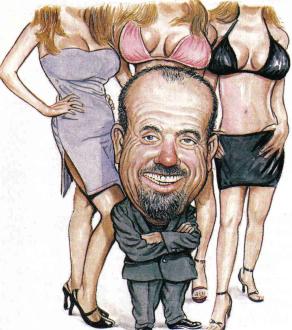

The lingering memory of those Britney Spears –Justin Timberlake "held at third base" virginity updates, as if they were the breeding pandas at the Washington National Zoo.

New Age slop like Enya that would make a unicorn throw up its moonbeams.

Just because a little fidget like Billy Joel took piano lessons 45 years ago, he now gets to clamber up a non-stop parade of fresh supermodels, like a monkey climbing a forest of palm trees to grab coconuts.

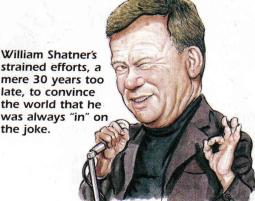

One-hit wonders. A three-way tie: When Eagle-Eye Cherry leaves uneven streaks on your car. When Shawn Mullins messes up your Happy Meal order. When Sixpence None the Richer gets into a nasty bottle fight with Ma$e over that last slice of roast rat.

Destiny's Child's constant "religious" yapping. We've been through the New Testament forwards and backwards, and not once does it mention Jesus We give all praise Christ's rooting for them to win a Grammy.

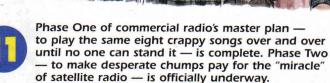

to Jesus Christ, our Lord and Savior! We are just the voice for the Almighty's song! It was also His divine grace that forced the penny-pinching bastards at Columbia to sweeten their cheap-ass Eurasian distribution deal! Thank you, Jesus!

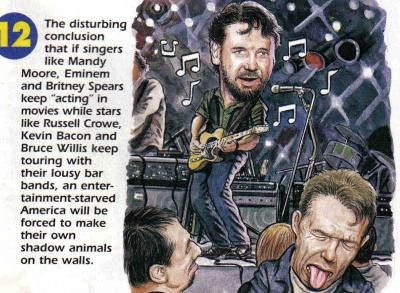

Sir Paul McCartney's god-awful caterwauling of "FREEDOM! FREEDOM! FREEDOM!" Those lyrics make "100 Bottles Of Beer On The Wall" sound deep.

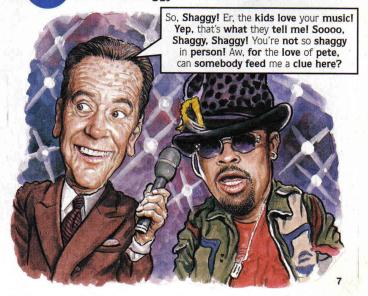

Despite what Alanis or Jewel would desperately like you to believe, horrible 7th grade poetry doesn't get any better when it's sung by Alanis or Jewel.

WORST MUSIC ABOUT...

Lamebrain apologists who explain that hateful, misogynist lyrics are simply an extension of America's long tradition of protest music. Somehow we missed the folk song where Peter and Paul sang about chopping up Mary.

Kooky diva Mariah Carey receiving a $49 million buyout to tear up her contract with Virgin after the multimedia Glitter bomb. That works out to:

- $75,000 per unnecessary syllable, during her caterwauling shriekfests.
- $900,000 for every time Ms. Carey's "people" robotically repeated the diagnosis of "nervous exhaustion."

■ $1.6 million for every time Mariah said the phrase, "I love you guys" to her fans during her 2001 "I'm Not Crazy" damage control tour.

$9 million for each customer who came back to see Glitter a second time.

20-year-old Alicia Keys telling the world about her lifelong struggle to realize her artistic vision. Alicia's keeping it real, all right. Real whiny.

Rock The Vote. Now there's a brilliant idea.
Let's take a bunch of clueless dorks who think our President is the band that did "Machinehead" and "Glycerine," herd them into the voting booth like the mooing mammals they are, and see how much damage they can cause.

Those legendary 4-and-a-half-hour Springsteen concerts aren't such a bargain when you realize that 3 hours of it is Bruce's inane between-songs chatter.

Yuh know, I can remember goin' down to the shore to buy me a chili dog! Couldn' afford no steak 'cause my boss, Mr. Mann, he told me. "Son, times is rough!" Funny thing 'bout times They're never smooth, leastways not on this side o' the tracks! But when I hit that open road, I could feel the weariness flyin' offa me at 'bout 75 miles per hour! But there's one thing a man can't speed away from, and that's his dreams and his fears! Now that's two things, but sometimes they get all balled up into one great big thing! Which reminds me of my 8th birthday...

MTV's sudden love affair with Ozzy Osbourne. Hey, if they thought he was so great, how come they played maybe two of his songs during the last 20 freakin' years?

Rock festivals that promote environmental awareness, then leave the concert grounds a smoking, trash-strewn field of non-recyclable refuse.

23

Pointless Washington D.C. hearings on music that just so happen to occur every election year. That way, Senators can dupe their voters into thinking that they're "doing something about" Rap. (Although it's always classic comedy to watch dumb old white guys trying to discuss the Constitutionality of shizzling one's nizzle.)

Music magazines desperate for a fresh angle. People"!

Somewhere, at this very moment, a future Mrs. Rod Stewart is being born.

The Hard Rock Cafe. It's tough enough enjoying their stinko $11 hockey puck hamburgers without having to force 'em down while staring right at Meat Loaf's Celine Dion's $100 million Las Vegas deal, which she claims lets her spend time with her family and her fans. Hmm, let's break this puppy down. Losers who've just blown their life savings on a hard 8 get to be consoled in their lowest moment by Celine's cacophonous caterwaulings. That new "miracle baby" of hers gets to grow up in a world of grifters, Mafia goons and hagged-out strippers. And Celine's husband gets to recuperate from heart problems by eating at the casino's 24-hour fried-fat BBO spread. Looks like everybody's a winner!

Live acts who just prance around while lip-synching to their prerecorded DAT tapes, so that you've just paid $35 to listen to the exact CD you already have.

Live acts who make it obvious just how badly they needed extensive studio tweaking, tape splicing, and major digital enhancement, so that you've just paid $35 to listen to ghastly "rough-edged" performances that sound nothing like the CD you already have (and once liked).

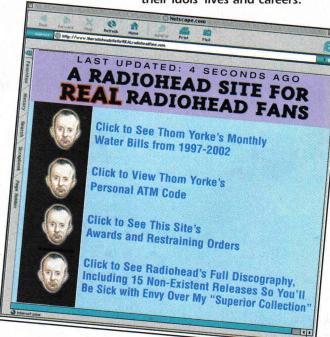

Live acts who encourage audience participation with endless "let me hear you!" chorus singalongs, so that you've just paid $35 to listen to the drunk sweathog bellowing in the seat right behind you.

It's looking like there won't be a single well-loved song of the past that won't end up being whored out for some cheesy ad campaign. Now it's only a matter of time until everyone under the age of 35 thinks The Rolling Stones was the band who wrote songs for a condom company.

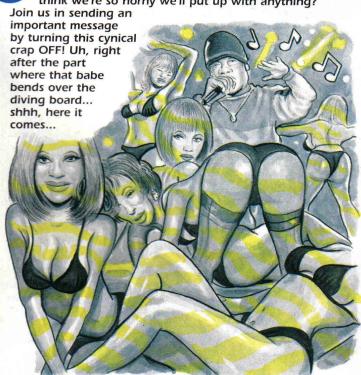

Obsessive websites by crazed fans that chart the smallest minute-by-minute details about their idols' lives and careers.

The real nightmare of human cloning is that we could end up with 400,000 simpering self-pitying lite-grunge bands ripping off Pearl Jam, instead of just the 400 we have now.

Unimaginative rap videos that try to make you forget how terrible the song is by using mobs of almost-naked bimbos doing splits and being hosed down. Do they think we're so horny we'll put up with anything?

WORST NUSC THINGS ABOUT...

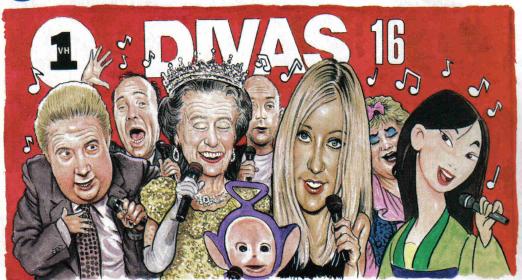

Movies that cram three songs in a row over the end credits, for no reason in the world except so they can legally include them on the CD soundtrack as "songs from..."

Those mobs of yammering teenagers who spend an entire day blocking the streets so they can keep their spot for staring up at the TRL window. It makes New Yorkers nostalgic for the time when the only high-pitched screaming heard in Times Square came from tourists being mugged.

VH1's mule-headed insistence on producing an annual "Diva" concert from an ever-shrinking talent pool will lead to the cultural "diva-lution" of the show.

Conspiracy theorists always play heavy metal records backwards for Satanic messages, but never the music of Barney or Mr. Rogers, to see what instructions they've been sending for years and years to an impressionable army of five-year-olds.

Bands who struggle for years to get noticed, catch lightning in a bottle and get that huge, career-breaking hit song, then resent being categorized and refuse to play their only tune anyone cares about.

TALES FROM the DUCK SIDE

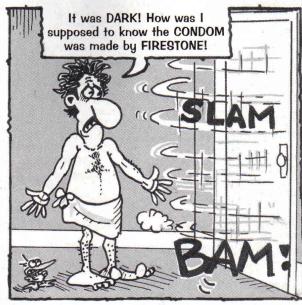

LAST BANGO IN PARIS

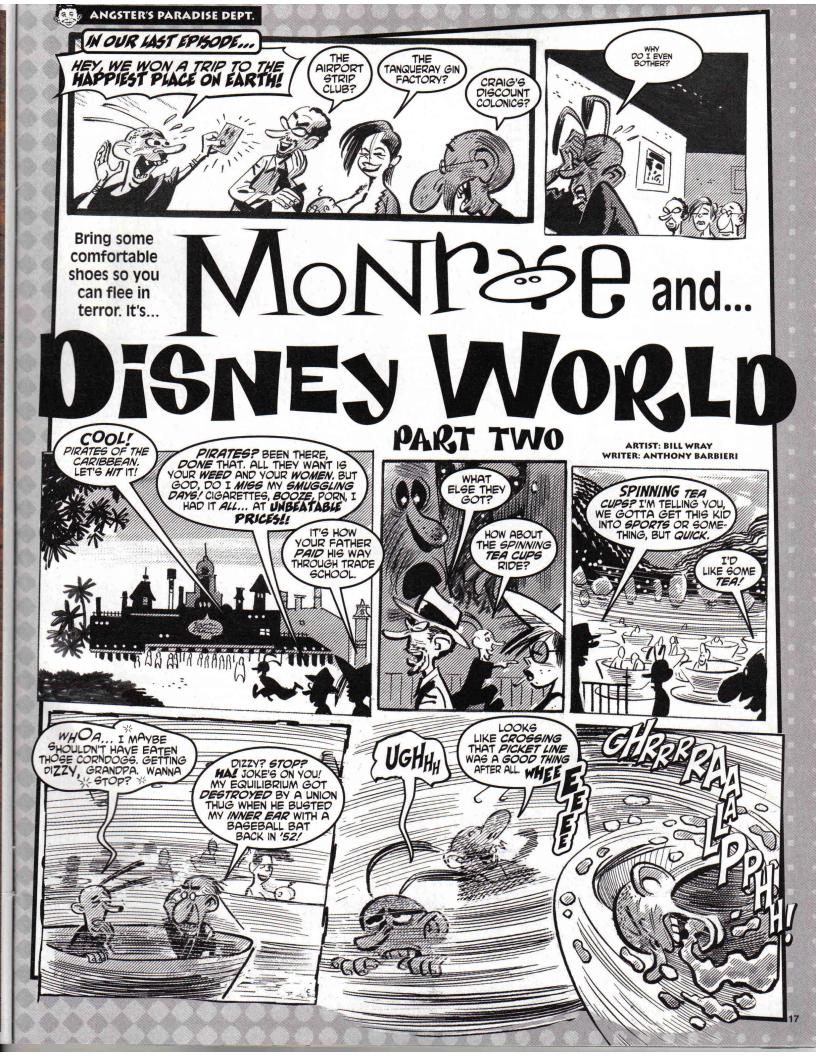

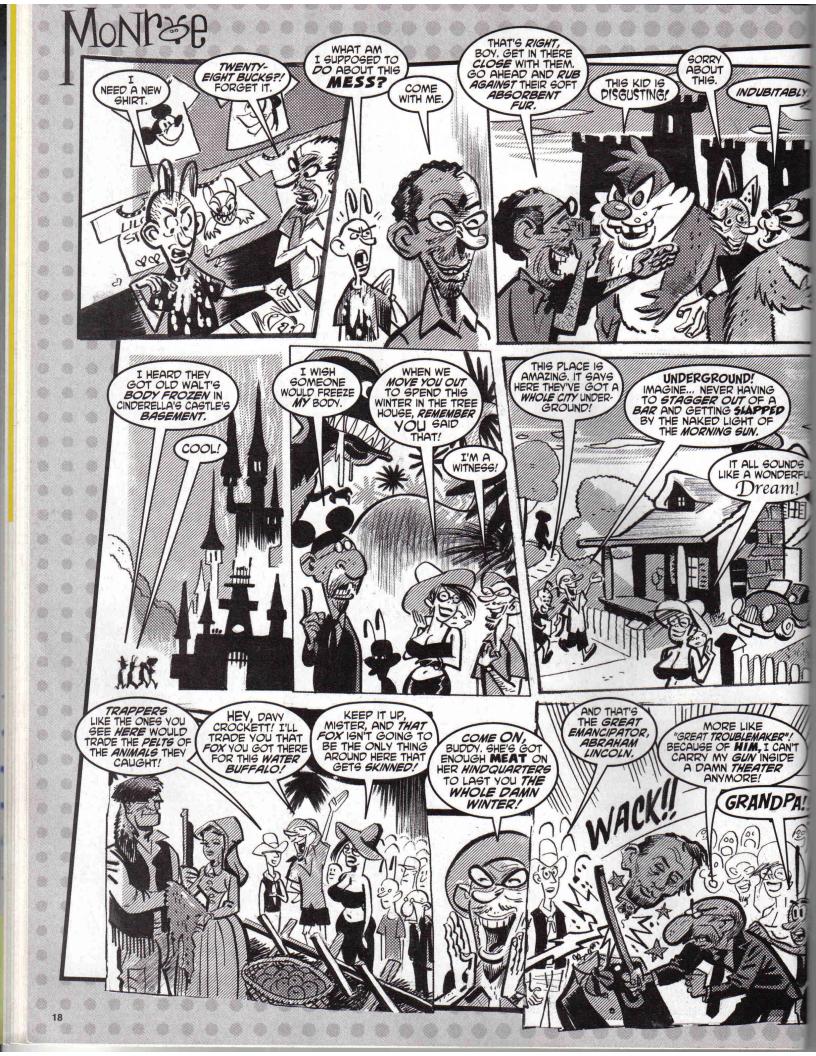

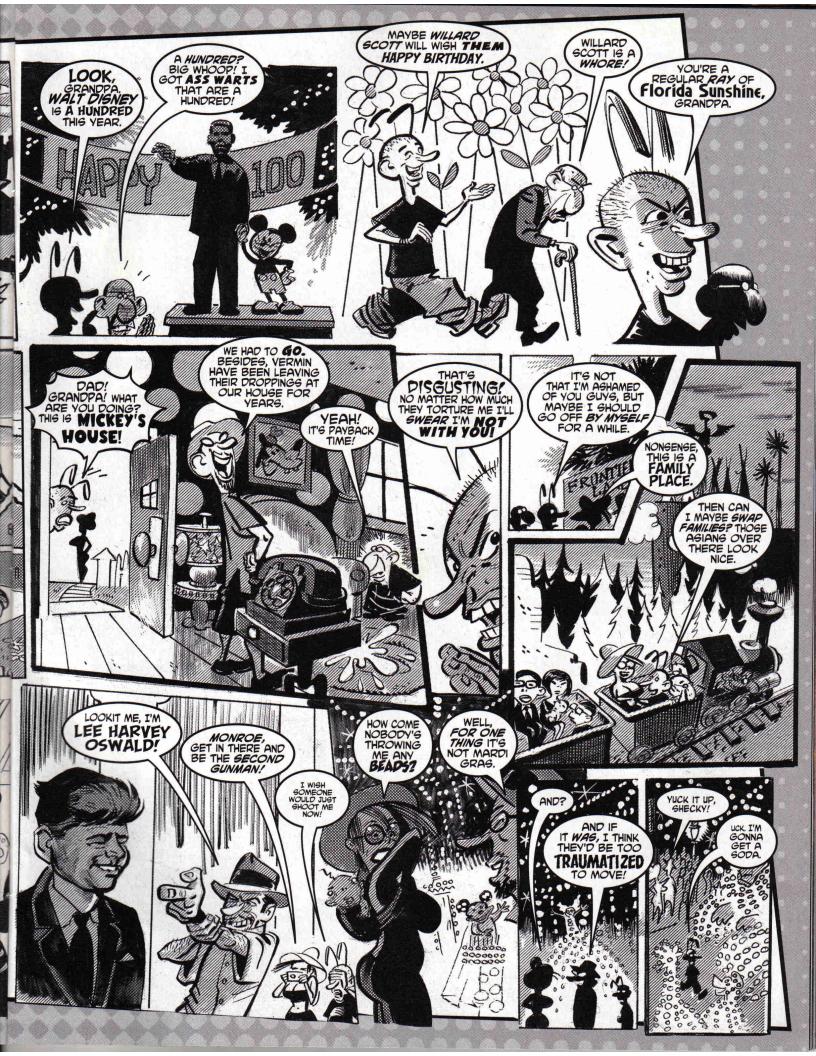

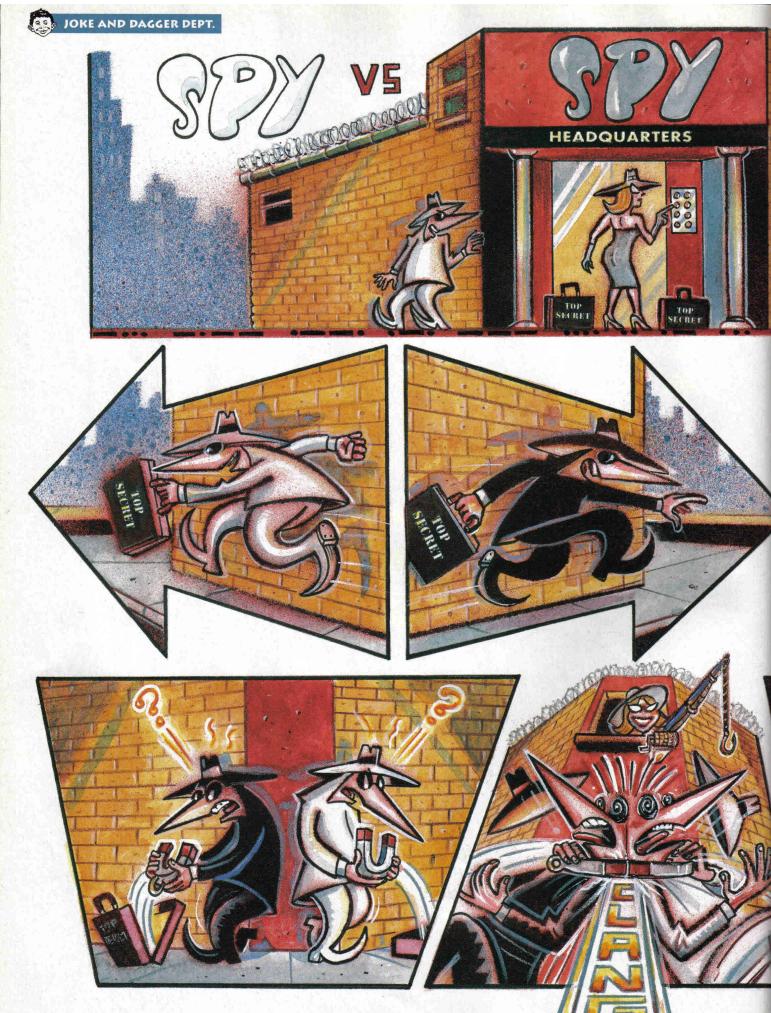

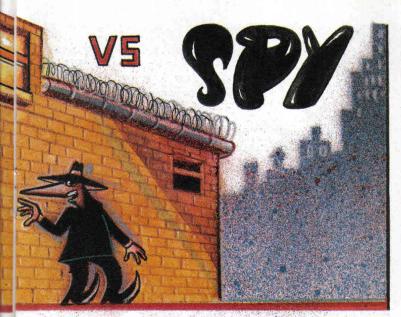

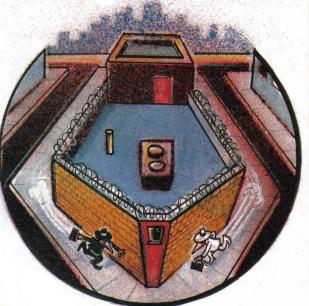

ARTIST AND WRITER: PETER KUPER

Many political experts now believe that thousands of near-senile viewers got so used to Millionaire's "vote A, B, C, or D" formula that their confusion led directly to the Florida 2000 election fiasco.

Millions of viewers, seeing so very few black people on screen, were tricked into thinking they were watching either Hockey Night on ESPN or C-SPAN's Senate coverage.

THE EVERLASTING. RIDICULOUS WHICH RIDICULOUS WILL RIDICULOUS W

The entire nation has been comforted by the knowledge that even in this time of international crisis, the United States continues to lead the world in knowing stupid crap.

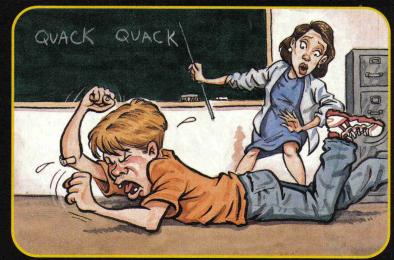

The red-faced embarrassment the show's producers felt when they realized Millionaire's very odd TV schedule...9 p.m. on Sundays, Wednesdays, Mondays, Thursdays, Tuesdays, or maybe Fridays...er, occasionally, it might be at 8 p.m., except sometimes ABC skips it — and that's not counting the weird 30-minute or 90-minute episodes — was infinitely tougher for viewers to figure out than any of the show's dodo-brained questions.

Countless first graders across the country have gone ballistic when they didn't pick up an $8,000 check for answering a mind-boggling stumper like, "What animal says 'quack quack quack'?"

Meaningless TV "small" talk has been replaced with meaningless TV "infinitesimally-undetectable-by-the-most-powerful-electron-microscope-on-Earth" talk.

Rather than slave away for years to create a better, more advanced world, many research scientists are quitting their jobs after realizing that they'll never take home as much cash as some unemployed geek does for guessing, with a 50/50 choice, the dog's name on Frasier.

THE EVER ASTING, RDICULOUS IMPACTS OF WILL ON A MILLLONAIRE

Hearing the number of ways Regis Philbin is capable of mispronouncing "Aaliyah" or "Ichiro Suzuki" has sent viewers into a lingering funk, wondering about the magnitude of the screw-ups they're editing out.

Jeopardy! contestants who go home with "only" $27,800 are now laughed at as the total losers they are.

Millions of brain-dead high school seniors have been stunned upon discovering that colleges do not consider the applicant's ability to put four movies in the correct order of their release to be knowledge worthy of a full tuition scholarship.

People no longer think it's strange to place one's entire financial future into the hands of random strangers who have the free time to stand on line all day to watch a game show taping.

Countless mentions of "our friends at AT&T" have helped the company build the warmest, most personal image of all the soulless telecommunication conglomerates.

BAKULA TO THE FUTURE DEPT.

Here's a quick lesson on how smart highly-paid network TV programmers are. In 1966, the original Star Trek began its five-year mission. Two years later, NBC decided Trek was a money loser and cancelled it. Audience protests got them to change their mind, but after one more season, they killed it AGAIN. Well, 80 gajillion spinoffs, toys, conventions, books, movies and a couple of very unfortunate record albums later, we can see what a brilliant move trying to snuff out Star Trek was. But did the TV boneheads pay for their blunder? Hell no! The cash they're pulling in off this franchise shows no sign of stopping, ever. In fact, it's an...

AMAD LOOK AT

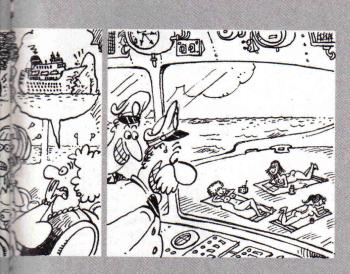

CRUSES

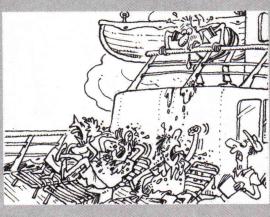

MTV's reality series The Osbournes has become a runaway surprise hit and, as what happens with all hit TV shows, it's only a matter of time before corporate weasels try to "brand" it and milk every last buck possible from it. How? Mainly by licensing the Osbourne name to any manufacturer with a dumb idea and (more importantly) cash in hand! Get ready to hold your nose (and your wallet)! Here's...

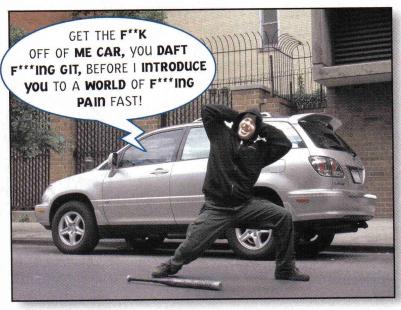

OSBOURINES OSBOURINES

MERCHANDISE WE'LL BE SEEING SOON

SHRIEKING SHARON OSBOURNE CAR ALARM

Felons beware! The Shrieking Sharon Osbourne Car Alarm is like having an annoyingly shrill, middle-aged Cockney woman screaming at you and yelling for the cops! Comes with free knitting needles, just in case the sound makes you want to drive them into your ears, and two Excedrin tablets.

Now criminals will never go near your car, and quite possibly, neither will you!

PRINCE O' DARKNESS

Bubble Mix

Sharon Osbourne's made yet another pact with those Lucifers in Licensing, and she's going to pass the satanic savings on to you! After Ozzy balked at the wildly inappropriate and ill-conceived bubble-blowing finale she'd planned for his Christmas concert, she was left with gallons and gallons of bubble mix, bubble mix that's been IN THE SAME ROOM AS OZZY OSBOURNE HIMSELF! Now she's looking to sell it, and lucky you! You get to buy it! Try this stuff and even the most hardcore heavy metal maniac will go from "Bloodbath in Paradise" to "Bubble Bath in Paradise" in no time!

Osbournes Family Mansion Playsel

Help your Kelly doll find her father's American Express Gold card she lost!

Chihuahuas, Japanese Chins and Bulldog all in one room or one in every room! We include them all

Put the incontinent Pomeranians,

Let your hobbling Ozzy figure catch the runaway cat...something the real Ozzy couldn't do! Modeled painstakingly after the Osbournes' real Beverly Hills digs, this miniature mansion was handcrafted by miniature people — Ozzy's very own Ozzfest midgets! — with an eye for accuracy and detail, so it's a perfect scale model of the real thing! Comes complete with Sad Doddering Ozzy doll, Bad Role Model Sharon doll, Dangerous Psycho Jack doll, and Bitchy Powder-Keg Kelly doll, as well as 645 toy dogs in realistic squatting positions. Jack's Idiot Friends dolls sold separately.

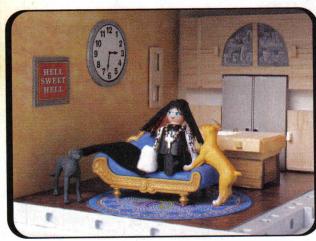

Incredibly lifelike (meaning he looks dead) figure of Jack's slacker friend Jason Dill passed out naked on Jack's bed!

The Sharon doll's in the bathroom with a whiskey bottle — looks like she's going to punish son Jack with a capital "Pee"!

Based on Jack Osbourne's highly unloved slacker pal, this plastic figure comes with a Help Wanted section he'll never use, dishes he'll never clean, and a ratty, tangled white afro he'll never comb!

(Comb not included, obviously.)

Jason Dill Osbournes

He doesn't have poseable joints!

He doesn't have kung-fu grip!

He doesn't come with a voice-chip that says 5 cool phrases!

In fact, he doesn't do ANYTHING! (Just like the real Jason Dill!)

Actual OSBOURNE

Now you too can feel like a rock star family! This is real food thrown by the Osbournes at their obnoxious neighbors! Also, use it to start food fights, as a door stop or alternative hockey puck. Sure, it's five times the price of real supermarket food, but hey, this stuff was handled by celebrities!

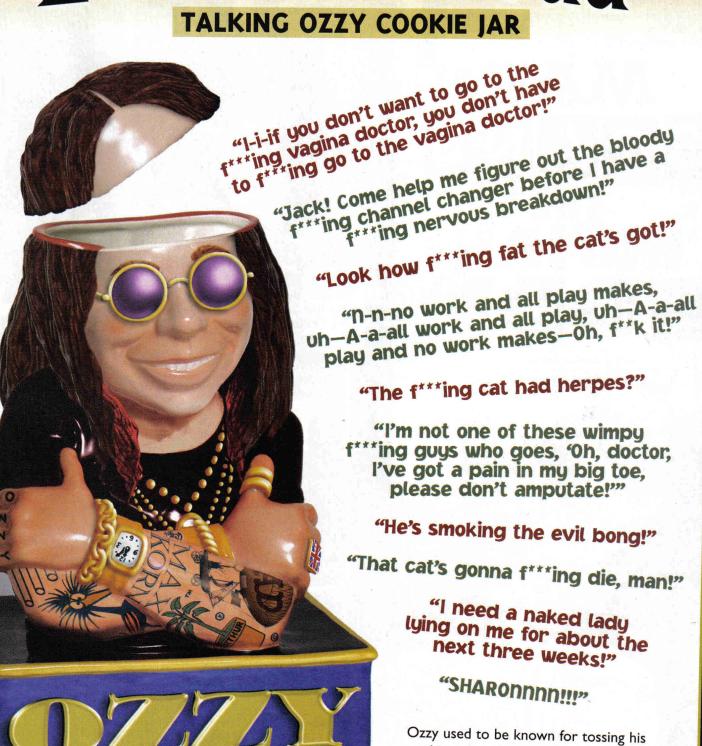

OSBOURNE'S OWN GRAVY

Paul Newman may have his Newman's Own recipes, but he doesn't hold a scented candle to the beastmaster bon vivant himself, Ozzy Osbourne! Of course. Ozzy's taste buds haven't worked since 1979, during a much-publicized tryst with two Swedish stewardesses, a paint roller, and a bucket of turpentine. But we hear it's real tasty anyway. Contains chunks of things that Ozzy swears were dead to begin with!

cookies; now you can eat his cookies! Every time you take the lid off Ozzy's head, it activates a voice-chip that spews out 666 incoherent, spastic phrases!

IMPORTANT PRODUCT RECALL NOTICE FROM HEAVENLY SLUMBER, INC.

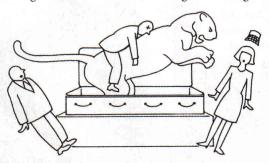

Heavenly Slumber, Inc. is recalling coffins, caskets, funerary boxes and sarcophagi marketed under the brand names Prestige, Excelsior, Commodore, Regale, Sophisticate, Velvet Underground and Eternal Napster. Funeral homes throughout the United States purchased the wood or metal burial receptacles from us for $175.00 wholesale and sold them to the public for $3,000-5,000 each. But that's not the problem.

An undetermined number of our coffins bearing one of the above model names and with serial numbers ending in RIP02X* have been mislabeled and are actually our Professional "Abracadabra" Showbiz models, which we manufacture exclusively for the stage. Some of these coffins are "trick" models designed to be sawed in half by professional magicians.

As a result, Heavenly Slumber has received reports that at funeral services, these coffins may suddenly split in two, dumping the dearly departed on the ground or into an open grave. Heavenly Slumber has also received reports of half the coffin staying inside when being slid out of a hearse, leaving half of the deceased hanging out. The sight of their loved ones' crumpled, contorted bodies may be disconcerting to the bereaved.

WARNING: IF YOU HAVE RECENTLY PURCHASED ONE OF THE ABOVE NAMED HEAVENLY SLUMBER PRODUCTS, DO NOT USE IT FOR WAKES, FUNERALS OR OTHER INTERMENT NEEDS. IF THE CASKET IS ALREADY IN THE GROUND, YOU MAY PREFER TO TAKE NO ACTION. IF YOU ARE CURRENTLY USING ONE OF THE ABOVE NAMED HEAVENLY SLUMBER PRODUCTS AT A WAKE OR IN A MEMORIAL SERVICE, IMMEDIATE ATTENTION IS REQUIRED. PALLBEARERS SHOULD BE WARNED TO EXERCISE EXTREME CAUTION WHEN HANDLING THE COFFIN AND AT NO POINT SHOULD THEY EVER TAP IT THREE TIMES WITH A MAGICIAN'S WAND.

Other models of Heavenly Slumber Coffins named above, those with serial numbers ending in DOA-99* have a false bottom with a cavity underneath, large enough to conceal a small to average-sized magician's assistant.

As a result, it is possible for the beloved corpse to be there one minute and gone the next. This could be disconcerting to the bereaved at an "open casket" service.

WARNING: IN THE EVENT A CADAVER DOES SUDDENLY DISAPPEAR, DIVERT ATTENTION BY IMMEDIATELY EXCLAIMING THAT IT'S A SIGN OF A "MIRACLE." FALL TO YOUR KNEES AND, WHILE TREMBLING, PRAISE YOUR LORD THAT THE DEARLY DEPARTED HAS "GONE TO HEAVEN." SHOULD THE DECEASED SUDDENLY REAPPEAR IN THE COFFIN ASTRIDE A WHITE SIBERIAN TIGER, YOU'RE ON YOUR OWN. IMPROVISE.

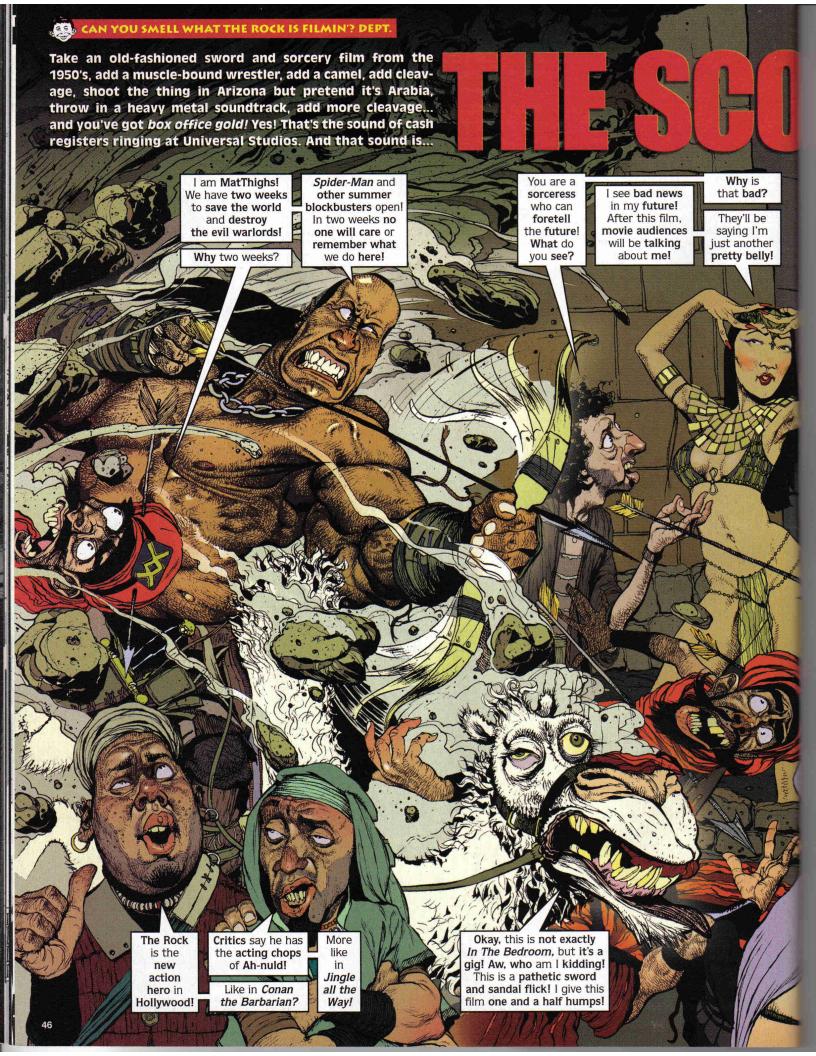

We're here to help: Heavenly Slumber, Inc. regrets any inconvenience. Consumers should stop using the recalled caskets immediately and call us toll free at 1-800-BYE-BYE. We will send you an insulated envelope large enough to return the coffin to us, at which time we will replace it free of charge. Replacement time will be 6-8 weeks. While waiting for the replacement death canister, we have made arrangements with Kroger, Acme and Piggly-Wiggly supermarkets across the country to hang your loved one's embalmed remains in one of their refrigerated meat lockers until you receive your replacement burial vault. Consumers using this option will receive a tag reading "Do Not Sell" to attach to the carcass at no additional charge. Thank you.

WHAT SHOCKING EVENTS HAVE RESULTED IN COUNTLESS LIVES BEING RUINED?

HERE WE GO WITH ANOTHER RIDICULOUS

It seems these days that certain unfortunate groups of Americans have become innocent victims of others' self-serving and unacceptable actions. It has made everyone feel paranoid and vulnerable around people they should be able to trust. One scandal in particular ruined many lives.
